

WILL WED THE DUKE

Miss Vanderbilt is Really to Marry the Duke of Marlborough.

THE ENGAGEMENT QUIETLY ANNOUNCED.

Only a Few Details of the Approaching Nuptials Have as Yet Been Arranged. Bishop Potter Will Possibly Officiate at the Services. Many Friends Will Cross the Atlantic.

Miss Consuela Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, will, before the end of the year, become the Duchess of Marlborough.

The engagement was quietly announced to the families and intimate friends of the contracting parties and confirmed beyond any question a few days ago. As the engagement is of such recent date only few details of the approaching marriage have yet been arranged. The ceremony, however, will be held in this city within the next few months. It will be performed in accordance with the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal church, conforming with that of the Church of England. Bishop Potter will probably officiate, and the services, it is thought, will be in open church.

The Duke of Marlborough has recently cabled the news to the members of his family and intimate friends in England and on the continent. Included among those to whom the information was conveyed was the Prince of Wales, who is godfather to the duke. It is expected that several of the intimate friends of the duke will cross the Atlantic to be present at the wedding.

The young duke is a strong contrast in appearance to the general run of the Churchills, although he bears a family resemblance to the portraits of the first duke, who was the greatest general of his age. He inclines more to the Hamiltons, his mother having been Lady Alberta Hamilton, daughter of the Duke of Abercorn. She is tall, slender, and of a fine complexion, with a high forehead, aquiline nose and dark brown hair.

His face is without a hair, with the exception of a light mustache, and his favorite attitude in conversation is to stand with his arms crossed on his breast and one hand stroking his chin. His manner is entirely unassuming, while the acute observer may occasionally detect a look of boredom in his eye, or what might be taken as a cynical curl on his lip, but those who know him best say that his cynicism is only skin deep.

Miss Vanderbilt is about 18 years old. She is strikingly tall, a dark brunette, with black hair and eyes and very rich coloring. Her face is small, and she is decidedly Japanese in type. She is very slight, but carries herself well and will undoubtedly be a very handsome woman. She has unusual sweetness and charm of manner, and although she has few intimates these few say that this sweetness of manner and disposition make her most lovable, and they are devoted to her. —New York Herald.

WHILE HE SLEPT.

A Man Cultivated His Farm, Built Fences and Cut Ditches.

Archibald Clarke, a farmer living near Grump, Ky., is without doubt the most remarkable somnambulist in Kentucky. He has actually during the past summer thoroughly cultivated four acres of land while asleep.

For a long time Mr. Clarke suspected his neighbors of stealing into his truck patches after night and doing the work, but finally one night while nailing some boards on his back yard fence he struck his thumb with a hatchet and awoke, thus realizing for the first time that he had been working in his sleep.

Among other things that he has done while in the somnambulist state was to lay a worm fence for a distance of 200 yards. One night he fell asleep, thinking that he would rise early on the following day and cut a small ditch to drain a pond, but great was his surprise when the next morning he found that the pond had been ditched during the night.

On one occasion he got up shortly after he had fallen asleep and putting several pounds of butter in a basket took it to a neighbor by grocery and traded it for coffee and sugar. For a long time he was at a loss to account for the missing butter. Neither did he know whence came the coffee and the sugar. However, once realizing that he is a confirmed somnambulist, he has questioned the grocer, who recollected the occurrence because of Mr. Clarke's strange conduct at the time.

Mr. Clarke lived alone, but since he has discovered his condition has engaged the services of a young negro, who takes care that his employer does not get out of the house during his sleep. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

How to Prepare Veal a la Belgique.

Take 2 pounds neck of veal, take out bones, save them for rice soup, cover meat with chopped parsley, salt and pepper and thin slices of bacon; roll up meat and tie. Melt a little suet for dripping, and roll meat well in this dripping, dust with flour, add little water to pan, baste often, baking in quick oven 1 1/2 hours. Serve with brown sauce, browning the flour in the fat in pan. Put bones in kettle with two quarts cold water, 2 sliced onions, any left over vegetables you may have in house, and one-quarter cup of rice, salt and pepper, boil down to 1 1/2 quarts.

YOUNG JAY GOULD.

The Late Wizard's Son Begins His Career Worthily.

Frank Jay Gould, youngest son of the late wizard of Wall street, has signalized his advent into business life by an act of generosity toward the people of Roxbury, N. Y., his father's birthplace. The village schoolhouse had become dilapidated, and as it required all the available money for running expenses the townspeople did not see their way clear to bettering the conditions of their only house of learning. It was with some surprise, considering the number and extent of gifts already bestowed upon the town by the Gould children, that overtures looking toward the erection of practically a new school building were received from Frank Gould. The proposal was gratefully received, and the youngster became very enthusiastic over his first philanthropic venture. The building was so thoroughly repaired that it had but little of the old material remaining in it, a big tower was raised and a 40 foot addition built.

When all was completed, young Gould determined to do still more handsomely by the building. There must be a clock and bell for the tower. A representative of the Seth Thomas Clock company was sent to Lyndhurst, where Frank lives with his sister, Miss Helen, and a day and part of a night were spent in going over the plans. Miss Alice Northrup, a cousin, and other members of the family participating in the consultation. The clock and bell were being placed in position yesterday and will be ready for duty within a few days. The Roxbury people are very proud of the new gift, since no other village in the state can make a like showing.

Frank Gould made the gift so quietly that the fact has only now become generally known. He is too modest to tell how much he spent, but it was a good many thousand dollars, and it was all saved from his income. Inquiry concerning the beneficence developed the fact that the young man has joined his brothers George, Edwin and Howard in managing their great joint interests and is now a member of a busy quartet at 195 Broadway in the office where his father won so many millions. Frank is about 19 years old. He is tall, lanky and smooth faced and is quiet and shy. —New York World.

How to Avoid Burned Hands.

Have plenty of holders around all the stoves in the house. In the kitchen you can make them of a double piece of ticking, with a layer or two of cotton between, stitch nicely around the edges and put a loop or ring to hang up by. They wash easily made that way. Holders are much nicer than using the nice clean apron or the tail of the dress to lift a hot coffee pot, kettle or frying pan. For the sitting room and parlor make the holder of a bit of thick silk and embroider it, making it ornamental as well as useful.

How to Make Soft Icing.

Take three-quarters of a cup of sweet milk, two cups of pulverized sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract; boil five minutes, then beat until thick enough to spread. Be careful and do not heat it too much or it may become too thick.

Baby enjoys its bath when Pine Blossom Soap is used. Its superior cleansing and soothing qualities make it a delightful luxury for the nursery. It softens and beautifies the skin, heals chafing and other irritating eruptions incident to childhood. Its absolute purity and powerful curative properties commend it to careful mothers.
